Fresh Ginger and Fresh Organic Ginger. Wet and Air Dried

Fresh Ginger and Fresh Organic Ginger. Wet and Air Dried

Fully air-dried fresh ginger hands from approved facilities in China. Wet ginger also available. This ginger has simply been washed, packed and transported in temperature and humidity-controlled containers. Transported this way there is less weight loss and shrinkage making it a good choice for direct processing in beverages as an example.

Global Gap & SEDEX approved growers
Residue Test/MRL Reports per harvest
All ginger conforms to EU/UK MRL for pesticides levels.
All ginger remains traceable throughout the supply chain with records retained for inspection and available on request.

Crystallised Ginger

Crystallised Ginger

Crystallised ginger has many and varied applications.

It is suitable for confectionary (for enrobing and incorporation in say chocolate bars, cakes, and biscuits).

It can be used for decoration but is most popular when eaten on its own, and is widely sold in the whole food trade in a wide variety of formats. The factory source only from their own dedicated growers. They do not import ginger from outside origins or in the open market.

Ginger Dragon visits both the factory and the growers on a regular basis.

All crystallised ginger is also available Fairtrade and/or Organic.

Syruped Ginger

Syruped Ginger

Syruped ginger can be used in jams, sauces, marinades, as well as bakery for cakes and biscuits. It is also widely used in bottling which was the most common form of preservation a long time.

Ginger syrup contains the aroma and pleasant sweet ginger flavour. This is of great benefit in many applications as it will allow the ginger flavour to be present throughout the product.

The traditional product is a semi round or oval ball referred to as stem ginger. However, for the 21st century Ginger Dragon offers prepared products for the convenience of the modern manufacturer.

The term 'stem' was used to refer to the part of the ginger from where the stem grew, this being the youngest and most tender part of the plant.

The factory source only from their own dedicated growers. They do not import ginger from outside origins or in the open market.

Ginger Dragon visits both the factory and the growers on a regular basis.

All syruped ginger is also available Fairtrade and /or Organic.

Poppadum Pellets

Poppadums

Poppadums are a lip-smacking crispy snack made traditionally in the South Indian State of Tamil Nadu.

The protein-rich Poppadum made with authentic Blackgram (dhal also known as lentils) is traditionally consumed throughout the year and comes in a mini snack size (1.5 inch raw).

Cheaper derivatives primarily made from potato starch with small amounts of black gram are available in the market but are not true, authentic poppadums.

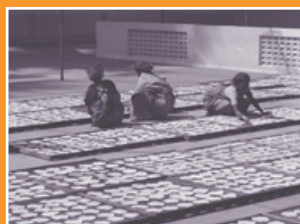

Poppadums are often served as starters in fine dining restaurants or as a popular snack in quick service restaurants and taverns. The slightly salty, crunchy Poppadum is a great accompaniment for Beer and any Indian foods. Extra special with our Indian pickles and chutneys.

Poppadums are traditionally sun cured & dried.

Every Poppadum is thoroughly inspected prior to release.

All our Poppadums are treated as individuals.

The factory are committed members of SEDEX, and have recently been audited against the SMETA standard.
